Online Learning Research Group

WLSA

This Research Group will be developing a strategy for WLSA online learning platform for the next 5 years, focusing initially on the WLSA Sustainability Course led by WLSA associate school Poly Prep in Brooklyn, New York. It also has a very practical role, effectively operating as an Advisory Board for the blended online learning service of WLSA.

We are looking for enthusiastic and willing teachers, middle leaders and senior leaders who:

- can dedicate some time to working collaboratively with others
- can think creatively about new content and ideas for the WLSA sustainability course
- are doers!

The expectations of members of the Online Learning Research Group are:

- to contribute to strategic and practical planning regarding the future of WLSA online learning
- to write or source a minimum of two website news articles per year for the WLSA website
- to write a minimum of 1 article per two years for the WLSA Record if required, on a topic to be agreed
- to attend minimum 2 virtual Research Group meetings per year
- to attend the WLSA annual conference as a presenter or guest, schedule permitting
  - anything else as required!

Benefits for you:

- developing online learning and platform experience
- networking and connecting with interesting people
- being part of something big and meaningful – this is an amazing opportunity to support and contribute to the vision and mission of WLSA in supporting its members and reaching out to new members as the organisation grows.
- Conference fee waived at the annual WLSA summer conference
